

Highlights of the New Rule Changes

June 2017

*Reading course materials without attending the seminar does not qualify for credit

A Cautionary Note

The State Bar of Wisconsin's CLE publications and seminars are presented with the understanding that the State Bar of Wisconsin does NOT render any legal, accounting or other professional service. Due to the rapidly changing nature of the law, information contained in a publication or seminar material may be outdated. As a result, an attorney using the State Bar of Wisconsin's CLE materials must always research original sources of authority and update the CLE information to ensure accuracy when dealing with a specific client's legal matters.

NOTICE TO ALL REGISTRANTS, INSTRUCTORS, EXHIBITORS, GUESTS: By attending this State Bar event, you understand and agree that you may be photographed and/or electronically recorded during the event and you hereby grant to the State Bar the right to use and distribute your name and likeness for promotional or educational purposes without monetary compensation. The State Bar assumes no liability for such use.

About the Presenters...

Dean R. Dietrich, shareholder with Ruder Ware, L.L.S.C., chairs the firm's Employment, Benefits, & Labor Relations Practice Group. He has represented attorneys in matters before the Wisconsin Supreme Court and the Office of Lawyer Regulation and has consulted with numerous law firms and lawyers regarding compliance with the Rules of Professional Conduct. He serves as Chair of the State Bar Committee on Professional Ethics in addition to past service on the Committee appointed by the Wisconsin Supreme Court to review changes to Supreme Court Rules Chapter 20, the Rules of Professional Conduct for Attorneys. Mr. Dietrich is a graduate of Marquette University Law School.

Timothy J. Pierce has been Ethics Counsel for the State Bar of Wisconsin since 2004. He received his undergraduate degree from the University of Wisconsin–Madison and his law degree from the University of Wisconsin Law School. Mr. Pierce was previously a Deputy Director at the Office of Lawyer Regulation. He has also been employed as the Ethics Administrator for Milbank, Hadley, Tweed & McCloy, in New York, and as an Assistant State Public Defender in Racine. He is a member of the State Bar of Wisconsin. He is a frequent speaker on matters of professional ethics and teaches Professional Responsibility at the University of Wisconsin Law School.

Max Welsh is a Senior Risk Management Consultant for InOutsource LLC, a law firm risk management consulting firm. Max's experience as a lawyer in both private practice and for the U.S. Government allows him to provide a perspective to InOutsource clients that is based on a deep understanding of the legal industry. In particular, after years as a securities regulatory attorney, Max served as deputy general counsel of Foley & Lardner LLP in Milwaukee. As deputy general counsel, Max was responsible for providing advice to senior management on the variety of issues faced by law firms, including claims, risk management, regulatory compliance, professional responsibility, and firm policies. In addition, Max counseled the firm's administrative departments and staff with respect to applicable ethics rules, information governance and data security strategy, and contractual obligations. As deputy general counsel, Max also directed the administrative operations of the conflicts and new business intake function at Foley. In the course of his time at Foley, Max re-imagined and re-engineered the policies, content, processes, and staffing model of that department. Max graduated from The George Washington University School of Law in 2003 and Union College (Schenectady, NY) in 2000. Max is licensed to practice law in Wisconsin and the District of Columbia.

State Bar of Wisconsin 2017 Spring Legal Ethics Series

June 8, 2017

Highlights of the New Rules

Dean R. Dietrich, Esq.
Ruder Ware, L.L.S.C.
P.O. Box 8050
Wausau, WI 54402-8050
ddietrich@ruderware.com

Timothy Pierce, Esq.
Ethics Counsel
State Bar of Wisconsin
5302 Eastpark Blvd.
Madison, WI 53718
tpierce@wisbar.org

Max Welsh, Esq.
InOutsource
1518 Walnut Street
Suite 1800
Philadelphia, PA 19102
maxwelsh@gmail.com

Wausau Office:
500 First Street, Suite 8000
Wausau, WI 54403
715.845.4336

Eau Claire Office:
402 Graham Avenue
Eau Claire, WI 54701
715.834.3425

Ruder ♦ Ware
BUSINESS ATTORNEYS FOR BUSINESS SUCCESS®

CHANGES TO
WISCONSIN RULES OF PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

I. INTRODUCTION

- A. New Rules become effective January 1, 2017. Supreme Court approves changes to black letter language.
- B. Supreme Court approves changes to comments and addition of Wisconsin Committee comments.
- C. Changes are based upon amendment to ABA Model Rules that were made for the purpose of addressing changes in the law practice including extensive use of technology as part of representation.
- D. Dissenting opinion opposes changes because of adoption of written changes to Comments.
- E. Two public hearings were held to address ABA Comment changes and Professional Ethics Committee changes.

II. DEFINITIONS – SCR 20:1.0

- A. Rules acknowledge electronic communications as a way to document action required in writing or pursuant to a written document.
- B. Change reflects expanded means of communication between attorney and client.

III. COMPETENCE – SCR 20:1.1

- A. Comment acknowledges that lawyer must keep abreast of changes relating to the benefits and risks associated with relevant technology.
- B. Comment adds language identifying requirements for lawyer making decision to contract with another lawyer or jointly representing a client.

IV. COMMUNICATION WITH CLIENT – SCR 20:1.4

- A. Comment acknowledges that lawyer should promptly respond to or acknowledge client communications.

V. CONFIDENTIALITY – SCR 20:1.6

- A. Change to black letter Rule that allows lawyer to reveal limited information to detect and resolve conflicts of interest.
 - 1. Disclosure of confidential information is allowed in any circumstance where it is necessary to resolve a conflict question.
 - 2. Information being disclosed may not compromise the attorney client privilege or prejudice the client.
 - 3. Wisconsin Committee Comment provides background for language change different from Model Rule relating to resolution of conflicts.
 - 4. Comment indicates that disclosure of information regarding conflict matters should be limited to identity of client and brief summary of general issues involved.
- B. Lawyer must take reasonable efforts to prevent the inadvertent or unauthorized disclosure of information relating to the representation or the unauthorized access to information.
 - 1. Comment defines factors to show reasonable efforts to prevent access or disclosure of client information.
 - a. The sensitivity of information;
 - b. The likelihood of disclosure if additional safeguards are not employed;
 - c. The cost of implementing additional safeguards;
 - d. The difficulty of implementing the safeguards;
 - e. The extent to which the safeguards adversely affect the lawyer's ability to represent clients.
- C. Comment also acknowledges that lawyer must discuss safeguards with client and client may require special security measures.

VI. BUSINESS TRANSACTION WITH CLIENT – SCR 20:1.8

- A. Wisconsin Comment clarifies that lawyer, when drafting legal documents may not require or imply that lawyer’s services be used in relation to the document.

VII. COMMUNICATION WITH PROSPECTIVE CLIENT – SCR 20:1.18

- A. Comment clarifies that person consulting with lawyer about possibility of lawyer-client relationship is considered a prospective client.
 - 1. Communications can be in any format.
- B. Consultation occurs if lawyer requests or invites submission of information about a potential representation and fails to notify client of restrictions against creating client relationship.
- C. Consultation does not arise if person responds to advertising that describes lawyer’s background, experience and contact information.
- D. Comment clarifies that a person who communicates with a lawyer for the purpose of disqualifying the lawyer is not a prospective client.

VIII. RESPECT FOR RIGHTS OF THIRD PERSONS – SCR 20:4.4

- A. Wisconsin Rule provides direction to lawyers when receiving a document or electronically stored information and knows that information is protected by the lawyer-client privilege or the attorney work product rule.
- B. Lawyer must:
 - 1. Immediately terminate review or use of the document;
 - 2. Promptly notify the person sending the document or the person’s attorney if required by Rules;
 - 3. Abide by the person or lawyer’s instructions with respect to disposition of the document until any court ruling can be obtained.
- C. Comment identifies the different requirement under the Wisconsin Rule compared to the ABA Model Rule and requires further caution and care being exercised by the lawyer receiving protected information.

- D. Metadata information may be considered attorney work product subject to the requirement to contact the person or lawyer of person for instructions.

IX. RESPONSIBILITIES REGARDING NON-LAWYER ASSISTANCE – SCR 20:5.3

- A. Comment recognizes the use of non-lawyers outside of the firm to assist the lawyer in providing representation and requires that lawyer make reasonable efforts to ensure that services are provided in a professional manner.
- B. Comment requires lawyer to have specific measures in place to assure that non-lawyers or contracted parties are complying with professional obligations of the lawyer.
- C. Comment recognizes obligation of lawyer will depend upon circumstances such as:
 - 1. The education, experience and reputation of the non-lawyer;
 - 2. The nature of the services involved;
 - 3. The terms of any arrangements concerning the protection of client information;
 - 4. The legal and ethical environments of the jurisdictions in which the services will be performed especially as regards confidentiality.
- D. Lawyer should communicate directions necessary to ensure that non-lawyer complies with professional obligations of the lawyer.
- E. Comment acknowledges that client may direct lawyer to use certain non-lawyer services and it is important to determine who will monitor the performance and professional conduct of the third party.

X. LIMITED LIABILITY LEGAL PRACTICE – SCR 20:5.7

- A. Language of Rule is amended to clarify that Rule applies to any lawyer authorized to practice law in the State of Wisconsin.
- B. Rule is amended to clarify that Rule applies to law firm where at least one lawyer is licensed to practice law in Wisconsin and has an ownership interest in the firm.

XI. RESPONSIBILITIES REGARDING LAW-RELATED SERVICES – SCR 20:5.8

- A. New Rule created for Wisconsin based upon ABA Model Rule.
- B. Rule provides that a lawyer who provides law-related services to a client must comply with Rules of Professional Conduct if law-related services are provided by lawyer in situation that is not distinct from the lawyer's provision of legal services or in circumstances where the lawyer fails to take reasonable measures to assure that a person receiving the law-related services knows that the services are not legal services of the lawyer.
 - 1. Law-related services is defined as services that might reasonably be performed in conjunction with or are related to the provision of legal services and are not prohibited as the unauthorized practice of law.
 - 2. Comment requires lawyer to show that lawyer has taken reasonable measures to communicate the understanding regarding the law-related services.
- C. ABA Comments regarding 20:5.8 – law-related services are included to assist in interpretation of language.
- D. Comment suggests that lawyer should take special care to keep separate the provision of law-related services from the legal services provided by the lawyer.

XII. ADVERTISING – SCR 20:7.2

- A. Comment clearly indicates that a communication from an individual contains a recommendation about the lawyer if it endorses or vouches for the lawyer's credentials, abilities, competence, character or other professional qualities.
- B. Comment allows lawyer to pay others for generating client leads as long as third party does not recommend the lawyer and there is no sharing of fees with third party and communication from third party is not misleading.
- C. Lawyer may not pay a third party to generate contacts with prospective clients if third party creates impression that it is recommending the lawyer or is making the referral without payment from the lawyer.

XIII. SOLICITATION OF CLIENTS – SCR 20:7.3

- A. Language clarifies that solicitation of clients could apply to any circumstance.
- B. Comment clarifies that communication by e-mail or other electronic means that do not involve real-time contact and do not violate other rules governing solicitation are permitted.
- C. Comment describes a solicitation as a targeted communication initiated by the lawyer that is directed to a specific person and that offers to provide or can be understood as to provide legal services.

XIV. TRUST ACCOUNT RULE – SCR 20:1.15

- A. Rule change eliminates recordkeeping requirements and places them in resource document prepared by Office of Lawyer Regulation.
- B. Rule allows expanded use of electronic banking services for transfer of funds between trust account and business account.
- C. Rule allows use of electronic banking services provided lawyer uses commercially-reasonable security measures and programs to ensure protection of client funds.
 - 1. In order to use electronic banking services, lawyer must create an electronic banking trust account (or re-name credit card trust account) and use such account for the receipt of electronically transferred funds from client or other sources and then transferring of funds to appropriate account.
- D. Rebuttable presumption is created that lawyer has violated Trust Account Rule if lawyer is unable to produce records showing the location and status of funds or property held by the lawyer in trust for a client.

XV. CONCLUDING REMARKS

APPENDIX A

2016 WI 76

SUPREME COURT OF WISCONSIN

NOTICE

This order is subject to further editing and modification. The final version will appear in the bound volume of the official reports.

No. 15-03

In the Matter of the Petition for Amendments to Rules of Professional Conduct for Attorneys

FILED

JUL 21, 2016

Diane M. Fremgen
Clerk of Supreme Court
Madison, WI

On June 30, 2015, the State Bar of Wisconsin (State Bar), by then-President Robert R. Gagan, filed the rule petition on behalf of the State Bar's Standing Committee on Professional Ethics.¹ The petition asks the court to amend various sections of Chapter 20 of the supreme court rules (Rules of Professional Conduct for Attorneys).

The court discussed the petition at open rules conference on November 16, 2015 and voted to schedule two public hearings. A letter to interested persons, seeking input, was sent on November 23, 2016. Comments were received from the Office of Lawyer Regulation (OLR) on January 14, 2016, and from Attorney Dean Dietrich on ¹ Wisconsin State Bar By-Laws require the Standing Committee on Professional Ethics to consider the "Rules of Professional Conduct for Attorneys" and recommend advisable changes. See Article IV, Section 3 of the Appendix to SCR Chapter 10.

December 28, 2015 and January 19, 2016, in support of the proposed amendments.

The first public hearing was held on January 22, 2016, and focused on proposed amendments that are identical to amendments made by the American Bar Association to the Model Rules of Professional Conduct (ABA Model Rules). State Bar President-Elect Francis W. Deisinger presented the petition. Attorney Timothy J. Pierce, State Bar Ethics Counsel, and Attorney Dean Dietrich also appeared and provided testimony.

A second public hearing was held on February 23, 2016. This hearing focused on proposed amendments not identical to or included in changes to the ABA Model Rules. Attorney Timothy J. Pierce presented the matter to the court. William McKinley, Vice Chair, State Bar Standing Committee on Professional Ethics, testified in support of the petition. The court discussed the matter at an open administrative rules conference on April 13, 2016 and again on May 12, and voted 6 to 1 to adopt the proposed amendments. Justice Shirley S. Abrahamson did not vote in support of the petition. She stated that she favored additional review of the proposed changes by a committee charged with reviewing the supreme court rules in their entirety and noted that the appendix to the petition filed by the State Bar includes some additional helpful background information that may be of use to practitioners. Therefore,

IT IS ORDERED that, effective January 1, 2017:

SECTION 1. 20:1.0(q) of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

20:1.0(q) "Writing" or "written" denotes a tangible or electronic record of a communication or representation, including handwriting, typewriting, printing, photostating, photography, audio or video recording, and ~~e-mail~~ electronic communications. A "signed" writing includes an electronic sound, symbol, or process attached to or logically associated with a writing and executed or adopted by a person with the intent to sign the writing.

SECTION 2. ABA Comment [9] to 20:1.0 of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

[9] The purpose of screening is to assure the affected parties that confidential information known by the personally disqualified lawyer remains protected. The personally disqualified lawyer should acknowledge the obligation not to communicate with any of the other lawyers in the firm with respect to the matter. Similarly, other lawyers in the firm who are working on the matter should be informed that the screening is in place and that they may not communicate with the personally disqualified lawyer with respect to the matter. Additional screening measures that are appropriate for the particular matter will depend on the circumstances. To implement, reinforce, and remind all affected lawyers of the presence of the screening, it may be appropriate for the firm to undertake such procedures as a written undertaking by the screened lawyer to avoid any communication with other firm personnel and any contact with any firm files or other ~~materials~~ information, including information in electronic form, relating to the matter, written notice and instructions to all other firm personnel forbidding any communication with the screened lawyer relating to the matter, denial of access by the screened lawyer to firm files or other ~~materials~~ information, including information in electronic form, relating to the matter and periodic reminders of the screen to the screened lawyer and all other firm personnel.

SECTION 3. ABA Comment [6] to 20:1.1 of the Supreme Court Rules is renumbered as ABA Comment [8] and amended to read:

Maintaining Competence

~~[6]~~ [8] To maintain the requisite knowledge and skill, a lawyer should keep abreast of changes in the law and its practice, including the benefits and risks associated with relevant technology, engage in continuing study and education and comply with all continuing legal education requirements to which the lawyer is subject.

SECTION 4. ABA Comments [6] and [7] to 20:1.1 of the Supreme Court Rules are created to read:

Retaining or Contracting With Other Lawyers

[6] Before a lawyer retains or contracts with other lawyers outside the lawyer's own firm to provide or assist in the provision of legal services to a client, the lawyer should ordinarily obtain informed consent from the client and must reasonably believe that the other lawyers' services will contribute to the competent and ethical representation of the client. See also Rules 1.2 (allocation of authority), 1.4 (communication with client), 1.5(e) (fee sharing), 1.6 (confidentiality), and 5.5(a) (unauthorized practice of law). The reasonableness of the decision to retain or contract with other lawyers outside the lawyer's own firm will depend upon the circumstances, including the education, experience and reputation of the nonfirm lawyers; the nature of the services assigned to the nonfirm lawyers; and the legal protections, professional conduct rules, and ethical environments of the jurisdictions in which the services will be performed, particularly relating to confidential information.

[7] When lawyers from more than one law firm are providing legal services to the client on a particular matter, the lawyers ordinarily should consult with each other and the client about the scope of their respective representations and the allocation of responsibility among them. See Rule 1.2. When making allocations of responsibility in a matter pending before a tribunal, lawyers and parties may have additional obligations that are a matter of law beyond the scope of these Rules.

SECTION 5. ABA Comment [4] to 20:1.4 of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

[4] A lawyer's regular communication with clients will minimize the occasions on which a client will need to request information concerning the representation. When a client makes a reasonable request for information, however, paragraph (a)(4) requires prompt compliance with the request, or if a prompt response is not feasible, that the lawyer, or a member of the lawyer's staff, acknowledge receipt of the request and advise the client when a response may be expected. ~~Client telephone calls should be promptly returned or acknowledged.~~ A lawyer should promptly respond to or acknowledge client communications.

SECTION 6. 20:1.6(c)(4) of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

20:1.6(c)(4) to establish a claim or defense on behalf of the lawyer in a controversy between the lawyer and the client, to establish a defense to a criminal charge or civil claim against the lawyer based upon conduct in which the client was involved, or to respond to allegations in any proceeding concerning the lawyer's representation of the client; ~~or~~

SECTION 7. 20:1.6(c)(5) of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

20:1.6(c)(5) to comply with other law or a court order; or

SECTION 8. 20:1.6(c)(6) of the Supreme Court Rules is created to read:

20:1.6(c)(6) to detect and resolve conflicts of interest, but only if the revealed information would not compromise the attorney-client privilege or otherwise prejudice the client.

SECTION 9. 20:1.6(d) of the Supreme Court Rules is created to read:

20:1.6(d) A lawyer shall make reasonable efforts to prevent the inadvertent or unauthorized disclosure of, or unauthorized access to, information relating to the representation of a client.

SECTION 10. A Wisconsin Committee Comment to 20:1.6(c) of the Supreme Court Rules is created to read:

WISCONSIN COMMITTEE COMMENT

Paragraph (c)(6) differs from its counterpart, Model Rule 1.6(b)(7). Unlike its counterpart, paragraph (c)(6) is not limited to detecting and resolving conflicts arising from the lawyer's change in employment or from changes in the composition or ownership of a firm. Paragraph (c)(6), like its counterpart, recognizes that in certain circumstances, lawyers in different firms may need to disclose considered in determining the reasonableness of the lawyer's efforts include, but are not limited to, the sensitivity of the information, the likelihood of disclosure if additional safeguards are not employed, the cost of employing additional safeguards, the difficulty of implementing the safeguards, and the extent to which the safeguards adversely affect the lawyer's ability to represent clients (e.g., by making a device or important piece of software excessively difficult to use). A client may require the lawyer to implement special security measures not required by this Rule or may give informed consent to forgo security measures that would otherwise be required by this Rule. Whether a lawyer may be required to take additional steps to safeguard a client's information in order to comply with other law, such as state and federal laws that govern data privacy or that impose notification requirements upon the loss of, or unauthorized access to, electronic information, is beyond the scope of these Rules. For a lawyer's duties when sharing information with nonlawyers outside the lawyer's own firm, see Rule 5.3, Comments [3]-[4].

~~{17}~~[19] When transmitting a communication that includes information relating to the representation of a client, the lawyer must take reasonable precautions to prevent the information from coming into the hands of unintended recipients. This duty, however, does not require that the lawyer use special security measures if the method of communication affords a reasonable expectation of privacy. Special circumstances, however, may warrant special precautions. Factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of the lawyer's expectation of confidentiality include the sensitivity of the information and the extent to which the privacy of the communication is protected by law or by a confidentiality agreement. A client may require the lawyer to implement special security measures not required by this Rule or may give informed consent to the use of a means of communication that would otherwise be prohibited by this Rule. Whether a lawyer may be required to take additional steps in order to comply with other law, such as state and federal laws that govern data privacy, is beyond the scope of these Rules.

SECTION 12. ABA Comments [13] and [14] to 20:1.6 of the Supreme Court Rules are created to read:

[13] Paragraph (b)(7) recognizes that lawyers in different firms may need to disclose limited information to each other to detect and resolve conflicts of interest, such as when a lawyer is considering an association with another firm, two or more firms are considering a merger, or a lawyer is considering the purchase of a law practice. See Rule 1.17, Comment [7]. Under these circumstances, lawyers and law firms are permitted to disclose limited information, but only once substantive discussions regarding the new relationship have occurred. Any such disclosure should ordinarily include no more than the identity of the persons and entities involved in a matter, a brief summary of the general issues involved, and information about whether the matter has terminated. Even this limited information, however, should be disclosed only to the extent reasonably necessary to detect and resolve conflicts of interest that might arise from the possible new relationship. Moreover, the disclosure of any information is prohibited if it would compromise the attorney-client privilege or otherwise prejudice the client (e.g., the fact that a corporate client is seeking advice on a corporate takeover that has not been publicly announced; that a person has consulted a lawyer about the possibility of divorce before the person's intentions are known to the person's spouse; or that a person has consulted a lawyer about a criminal investigation that has not led to a public charge). Under those circumstances, paragraph (a) prohibits disclosure unless the client or former client gives informed consent. A lawyer's fiduciary duty to the lawyer's firm may also govern a lawyer's conduct when exploring an association with another firm and is beyond the scope of these Rules.

[14] Any information disclosed pursuant to paragraph (b)(7) may be used or further disclosed only to the extent necessary to detect and resolve conflicts of interest. Paragraph (b)(7) does not restrict the use of information acquired by means independent of any disclosure pursuant to paragraph (b)(7). Paragraph (b)(7) also does not affect the disclosure of information within a law firm when the disclosure is otherwise authorized, see Comment [5], such as when a lawyer in a firm discloses information to another lawyer in the same firm to detect and resolve conflicts of interest that could arise in connection with undertaking a new representation.

SECTION 13. A Wisconsin Committee Comment to 20:1.8 of the Supreme Court Rules is created to read:

WISCONSIN COMMITTEE COMMENT

ABA Comment [8] states that Model Rule 1.8 "does not prohibit a lawyer from seeking to have the lawyer or partner or associate of the lawyer named as executor of the client's estate or to another potentially lucrative fiduciary position." This language is inconsistent with SCR 20:7.3(e), which prohibits a lawyer, at his or her instance, from drafting legal documents, such as wills or trust instruments, which require or imply that the lawyer's services be used in relation to that document. For this reason, ABA Comment [8] is inapplicable.

SECTION 14. ABA Comment [7] to 20:1.17 of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

Client Confidences, Consent and Notice

[7] Negotiations between seller and prospective purchaser prior to disclosure of information relating to a specific representation of an identifiable client no more violate the confidentiality provisions of Model Rule 1.6 than do preliminary discussions concerning the possible association of another lawyer or mergers between firms, with respect to which client consent is not required. See Rule 1.6(b)(7). Providing the purchaser access to ~~client-specific~~ information relating to the representation, ~~and to such as~~ the client's file, however, requires client consent. The Rule provides that before such information can be disclosed by the seller to the purchaser the client must be given actual written notice of the contemplated sale, including the identity of the purchaser, and must be told that the decision to consent or make other arrangements must be made within 90 days. If nothing is heard from the client within that time, consent to the sale is presumed.

SECTION 15. 20:1.18(a) and (b) of the Supreme Court Rules are amended to read:

submission of information about a potential representation without clear and reasonably understandable warnings and cautionary statements that limit the lawyer's obligations, and a person provides information in response. See also Comment [4]. In contrast, a consultation does not occur if a person provides information to a lawyer in response to advertising that merely describes the lawyer's education, experience, areas of practice, and contact information, or provides legal information of general interest. A person who communicates—Such a person communicates information unilaterally to a lawyer, without any reasonable expectation that the lawyer is willing to discuss the possibility of forming a client-lawyer relationship, and is thus not a "prospective client," within the meaning of paragraph (a). Moreover, a person who communicates with a lawyer for the purpose of disqualifying the lawyer is not a "prospective client."

* * * *

[4] In order to avoid acquiring disqualifying information from a prospective client, a lawyer considering whether or not to undertake a new matter should limit the initial interview-consultation to only such information as reasonably appears necessary for that purpose. Where the information indicates that a conflict of interest or other reason for nonrepresentation exists, the lawyer should so inform the prospective client or decline the representation. If the prospective client wishes to retain the lawyer, and if consent is possible under Rule 1.7, then consent from all affected present or former clients must be obtained before accepting the representation.

[5] A lawyer may condition ~~conversations~~ a consultation with a prospective client on the person's informed consent that no information disclosed during the consultation will prohibit the lawyer from representing a different client in the matter. See Rule 1.0(e) for the definition of informed consent. If the agreement expressly so provides, the prospective client may also consent to the lawyer's subsequent use of information received from the prospective client.

SECTION 17. 20:4.4(b) of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

20:4.4(b) A lawyer who receives a document or electronically stored information relating to the representation of the lawyer's client and knows or reasonably should know that the document or electronically stored information was inadvertently sent shall promptly notify the sender.

SECTION 18. 20:4.4(c) of the Supreme Court Rules is created to read:

20:4.4(c) A lawyer who receives a document or electronically stored information relating to the representation of the lawyer's client and knows or reasonably should know that the document or electronically stored information contains information protected by the lawyer-client privilege or the work product rule and has been disclosed to the lawyer inadvertently shall:

(1) immediately terminate review or use of the document or electronically stored information;

(2) promptly notify the person or the person's lawyer if communication with the person is prohibited by SCR 20:4.2 of the inadvertent disclosure; and

(3) abide by that person's or lawyer's instructions with respect to disposition of the document or electronically stored information until obtaining a definitive ruling on the proper disposition from a court with appropriate jurisdiction.

SECTION 19. A Wisconsin Committee Comment to 20:4.4 of the Supreme Court Rules is created to read:

WISCONSIN COMMITTEE COMMENT

This Rule, unlike its Model Rule counterpart, contains paragraph (c), which specifically applies to information protected by the lawyer-client privilege and the work product rule. If a lawyer knows that the document or electronically stored information contains information protected by the lawyer-client privilege or the work product rule and has been disclosed to the lawyer inadvertently, then this Rule requires the lawyer to immediately terminate review or use of the document or electronically stored information, promptly notify the person or the person's lawyer if communication with the person is prohibited by SCR 20:4.2 of the inadvertent disclosure, and abide by that person's or lawyer's instructions with respect to disposition of the document or electronically stored information until obtaining a definitive ruling on the proper disposition from a court with appropriate jurisdiction.

Due to substantive and numbering differences, special care should be taken in consulting the ABA Comment.

SECTION 20. ABA Comments [2] and [3] to 20:4.4 of the Supreme Court Rules are amended to read:

[2] Paragraph (b) recognizes that lawyers sometimes receive a document~~s~~ or electronically stored information that ~~were~~ was mistakenly sent or produced by opposing parties or their lawyers. A document or electronically stored information is inadvertently sent when it is accidentally transmitted, such as when an email or letter is misaddressed or a document or electronically stored information is accidentally included with information that was intentionally transmitted. If a lawyer knows or reasonably should know that such a document or electronically stored information was sent inadvertently, then this Rule requires the lawyer to promptly notify the sender in order to permit that person to take protective measures. Whether the lawyer is required to take additional steps, such as returning the original document or electronically stored information, is a matter of law beyond the scope of these Rules, as is the question of whether the privileged status of a document or electronically stored information has been waived. Similarly, this Rule does not address the legal duties of a lawyer who receives a document or electronically stored information that the lawyer knows or reasonably should know may have been ~~wrongfully~~ inappropriately obtained by the sending person. For purposes of this Rule, "document or electronically stored information" includes, in addition to paper documents, email or other forms of electronically stored information, including embedded data (commonly referred to as "metadata"), that is ~~e-mail or other electronic modes of transmission~~ subject to being read or put into readable form. Metadata in electronic documents creates an obligation under this Rule only if the receiving lawyer knows or reasonably should know that the metadata was inadvertently sent to the receiving lawyer.

[3] Some lawyers may choose to return a document or delete electronically stored information unread, for example, when the lawyer learns before receiving ~~the document~~ it that it was inadvertently sent ~~to the wrong address~~. Where a lawyer is not required by applicable law to do so, the decision to voluntarily return such a document or delete electronically stored information is a matter of professional judgment ordinarily reserved to the lawyer. See Rules 1.2 and 1.4.

SECTION 21. 20:5.3 (title) of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

20:5.3 Responsibilities regarding nonlawyer assistants assistance

SECTION 22. ABA Comments [1] and [2] to 20:5.3 of the Supreme Court Rules are renumbered in the reverse. Renumbered ABA Comment [1] is further amended to read:

~~+~~[1] Paragraph (a) requires lawyers with managerial authority within a law firm to make reasonable efforts ~~to establish internal policies and procedures designed to provide~~ to ensure that the firm has in effect measures giving reasonable assurance that nonlawyers in the firm and nonlawyers outside the firm who work on firm matters will act in a way compatible ~~with the Rules of Professional Conduct~~ with the professional obligations of the lawyer. See Comment [6] to Rule 1.1 (retaining lawyers outside the firm) and Comment [1] to Rule 5.1 (responsibilities with respect to lawyers within a firm).

Paragraph (b) applies to lawyers who have supervisory authority over ~~the work of a nonlawyer.~~ such nonlawyers within or outside the firm. Paragraph (c) specifies the circumstances in which a lawyer is responsible for the conduct of a nonlawyer ~~such nonlawyers inside or outside the firm~~ that would be a violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct if engaged in by a lawyer.

SECTION 23. ABA Comments [3] and [4] to 20:5.3 of the Supreme Court Rules are created to read:

[3] A lawyer may use nonlawyers outside the firm to assist the lawyer in rendering legal services to the client. Examples include the retention of an investigative or paraprofessional service, hiring a document management company to create and maintain a database for complex litigation, sending client documents to a third party for printing or scanning, and using an Internet-based service to store client information. When using such services outside the firm, a lawyer must make reasonable efforts to ensure that the services are provided in a manner that is compatible with the lawyer's professional obligations. The extent of this obligation will depend upon the circumstances, including the education, experience and reputation of the nonlawyer; the nature of the services involved; the terms of any arrangements concerning the protection of client information; and the legal and ethical environments of the jurisdictions in which the services will be performed, particularly with regard to confidentiality. See also Rules 1.1 (competence), 1.2 (allocation of authority), 1.4 (communication with client), 1.6 (confidentiality), 5.4(a) (professional independence of the lawyer), and 5.5(a) (unauthorized practice of law). When retaining or

[1] A lawyer may practice law only in a jurisdiction in which the lawyer is authorized to practice. A lawyer may be admitted to practice law in a jurisdiction on a regular basis or may be authorized by court rule or order or by law to practice for a limited purpose or on a restricted basis. Paragraph (a) applies to unauthorized practice of law by a lawyer, whether through the lawyer's direct action or by the lawyer assisting another person. For example, a lawyer may not assist a person in practicing law in violation of the rules governing professional conduct in that person's jurisdiction.

[4] Other than as authorized by law or this Rule, a lawyer who is not admitted to practice generally in this jurisdiction violates paragraph (b)(1) if the lawyer establishes an office or other systematic and continuous presence in this jurisdiction for the practice of law. Presence may be systematic and continuous even if the lawyer is not physically present here. Such a lawyer must not hold out to the public or otherwise represent that the lawyer is admitted to practice law in this jurisdiction. See also Rules 7.1(a) and 7.5(b).

[18] Paragraph (d)(2) recognizes that a lawyer may provide legal services in a jurisdiction in which the lawyer is not licensed when authorized to do so by federal or other law, which includes statute, court rule, executive regulation or judicial precedent. See, e.g., The ABA Model Rule on Practice Pending Admission.

[21] Paragraphs (c) and (d) do not authorize communications advertising legal services ~~to prospective clients~~ in this jurisdiction by lawyers who are admitted to practice in other jurisdictions. Whether and how lawyers may communicate the availability of their services ~~to prospective clients~~ in this jurisdiction is governed by Rules 7.1 to 7.5.

SECTION 26. 20:5.7(a)(1) of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

20:5.7(a)(1) A lawyer may be a member of a law firm that is organized as a limited liability organization solely to render professional legal services under the laws of this state, including chs. 178 and 183 and subch. XIX of ch. 180. The lawyer may practice in or as a limited liability organization if the lawyer is otherwise ~~licensed~~ authorized to practice law in this state and the organization is registered under sub. (b).

SECTION 27. 20:5.7(d) of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

20:5.7(d) A law firm that is organized as a limited liability organization under the laws of any other state or jurisdiction or of the United States solely for the purpose of rendering professional legal services that is authorized to do business in Wisconsin and that has ~~a~~ at least one lawyer licensed to practice law in Wisconsin and who also has an ownership interest in the firm may register under this rule by complying with the provisions of sub. (b).

SECTION 28. 20:5.8 of the Supreme Court Rules is created to read:

20:5.8 Responsibilities Regarding Law-Related Services

(a) A lawyer shall be subject to the Rules of Professional Conduct with respect to the provision of law-related services, as defined in paragraph (b), if the law-related services are provided:

(1) by the lawyer in circumstances that are not distinct from the lawyer's provision of legal services to clients; or

(2) in other circumstances by an entity controlled by the lawyer individually or with others if the lawyer fails to take reasonable measures to assure that a person obtaining the law-related services knows that the services are not legal services and that the protections of the client-lawyer relationship do not exist.

(b) The term "law-related services" denotes services that might reasonably be performed in conjunction with and in substance are related to the provision of legal services, and that are not prohibited as unauthorized practice of law when provided by a nonlawyer.

SECTION 29. ABA Comments [1] through [11] to 20:5.8 are created to read:

[1] When a lawyer performs law-related services or controls an organization that does so, there exists the potential for ethical problems. Principal among these is the possibility that the person for whom the law-related services are performed fails to understand that the services may not carry with them the protections normally afforded as part of the client-lawyer relationship. The recipient of the law-related services may expect, for example, that the protection of client confidences, prohibitions against representation of persons with conflicting interests, and obligations of a lawyer to maintain professional independence apply to the provision of law-related services when that may not be the case.

[2] Rule 5.7 applies to the provision of law-related services by a lawyer even when the lawyer does not provide any legal services to legal services and that the Rules of Professional Conduct that relate to the client-lawyer relationship do not apply. A lawyer's control of an entity extends to the ability to direct its operation. Whether a lawyer has such control will depend upon the circumstances of the particular case.

[5] When a client-lawyer relationship exists with a person who is referred by a lawyer to a separate law-related service entity controlled by the lawyer, individually or with others, the lawyer must comply with Rule 1.8(a).

[6] In taking the reasonable measures referred to in paragraph (a)(2) to assure that a person using law-related services understands the practical effect or significance of the inapplicability of the Rules of Professional Conduct, the lawyer should communicate to the person receiving the law-related services, in a manner sufficient to assure that the person understands the significance of the fact, that the relationship of the person to the business entity will not be a client-lawyer relationship. The communication should be made before entering into an agreement for provision of or providing law-related services, and preferably should be in writing.

[7] The burden is upon the lawyer to show that the lawyer has taken reasonable measures under the circumstances to communicate the desired understanding. For instance, a sophisticated user of law-related services, such as a publicly held corporation, may require a lesser explanation than someone unaccustomed to making distinctions between legal services and law-related services, such as an individual seeking tax advice from a lawyer-accountant or investigative services in connection with a lawsuit.

[8] Regardless of the sophistication of potential recipients of law-related services, a lawyer should take special care to keep separate the provision of law-related and legal services in order to minimize the risk that the recipient will assume that the law-related services are legal services. The risk of such confusion is especially acute when the lawyer renders both types of services with respect to the same matter. Under some circumstances the legal and law-related services may be so closely entwined that they cannot be distinguished from each other, and the requirement of disclosure and consultation imposed by paragraph (a)(2) of the Rule cannot be met. In such a case a lawyer will be responsible for assuring that both the lawyer's conduct and, to the extent required by Rule 5.3, that of nonlawyer employees in the distinct entity that the lawyer controls complies in all respects with the Rules of Professional Conduct.

[9] A broad range of economic and other interests of clients may be served by lawyers engaging in the delivery of law-related services. Examples of law-related services include providing title insurance, financial planning, accounting, trust services, real estate counseling, legislative lobbying, economic analysis, social work, psychological counseling, tax preparation, and patent, medical or environmental consulting.

[10] When a lawyer is obliged to accord the recipients of such services the protections of those Rules that apply to the client-lawyer relationship, the lawyer must take special care to heed the proscriptions of the Rules addressing conflict of interest (Rules 1.7 through 1.11, especially Rules 1.7(a)(2) and 1.8(a), (b) and (f)), and to scrupulously adhere to the requirements of Rule 1.6 relating to disclosure of confidential information. The promotion of the law-related services must also in all respects comply with Rules 7.1 through 7.3, dealing with advertising and solicitation. In that regard, lawyers should take special care to identify the obligations that may be imposed as a result of a jurisdiction's decisional law.

[11] When the full protections of all of the Rules of Professional Conduct do not apply to the provision of law-related services, principles of law external to the Rules, for example, the law of principal and agent, govern the legal duties owed to those receiving the services. Those other legal principles may establish a different degree of protection for the recipient with respect to confidentiality of information, conflicts of interest and permissible business relationships with clients. See also Rule 8.4 (Misconduct).

SECTION 30. ABA Comment [3] to 20:7.1 of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

[3] An advertisement that truthfully reports a lawyer's achievements on behalf of clients or former clients may be misleading if presented so as to lead a reasonable person to form an unjustified expectation that the same results could be obtained for other clients in similar matters without reference to the specific factual and legal circumstances of each client's case. Similarly, an unsubstantiated comparison of the lawyer's services or fees with the services or fees of other lawyers may be misleading if presented with such specificity as would lead a reasonable person to conclude that the comparison can be substantiated. The inclusion of an appropriate disclaimer or qualifying language may preclude a finding that a statement is likely to create unjustified expectations or otherwise mislead ~~a prospective client~~ the public.

SECTION 31. ABA Comments [1], [2], [3], [5], [6], and [7] to 20:7.2 of the Supreme Court Rules are amended to read:

[1] To assist the public in learning about and obtaining legal services, lawyers should be allowed to make known their services not only through reputation but also through organized information campaigns in the form of advertising. Advertising involves an active quest for clients, contrary to the tradition that a lawyer should not seek clientele. However, the public's need to know about legal services can be fulfilled in part through advertising. This need is particularly acute in the case of persons of moderate means who have not made extensive use of legal services. The interest in expanding public information about legal services ought to prevail over considerations of tradition. Nevertheless, advertising by lawyers entails the risk of practices that are misleading or overreaching.

[2] This Rule permits public dissemination of information concerning a lawyer's name or firm name, address, email address, website, and telephone number; the kinds of services the lawyer will undertake; the basis on which the lawyer's fees are determined, including prices for specific services and payment and credit arrangements; a lawyer's foreign language ability; names of references and, with their consent, names of clients regularly represented; and other information that might invite the attention of those seeking legal assistance.

[3] Questions of effectiveness and taste in advertising are matters of speculation and subjective judgment. Some jurisdictions have had extensive prohibitions against television and other forms of advertising, against advertising going beyond specified facts about a lawyer, or against "undignified" advertising. Television, the Internet, and other forms of electronic communication are ~~is now one among~~ of the most powerful media for getting information to the public, particularly persons of low and moderate income; prohibiting television advertising, therefore, would impede the flow of information about legal services to many sectors of the public. Limiting the information that may be advertised has a similar effect and assumes that the bar can accurately forecast the kind of information that the public would regard as relevant. ~~Similarly, electronic media, such as the Internet, can be an important source of information about legal services, and lawful communication by electronic mail is permitted by this Rule.~~ But see Rule 7.3(a) for the prohibition against the a solicitation of a prospective client through a real-time electronic exchange initiated by the lawyer ~~that is not initiated by the prospective client.~~

[5] Except as permitted under paragraphs (b)(1)-(4), lawyers ~~Lawyers~~ are not permitted to pay others for ~~channeling professional work~~ recommending the lawyer's services or for channeling professional work in a manner that violates Rule 7.3. A communication contains a recommendation if it endorses or vouches for a lawyer's credentials, abilities, competence, character, or other professional qualities. Paragraph (b)(1), however, allows a lawyer to pay for advertising and communications permitted by this Rule, including the costs of print directory listings, on-line directory listings, newspaper ads, television and radio airtime, domain-name registrations, sponsorship fees, ~~banner ads,~~ Internet-based advertisements, and group advertising. A lawyer may compensate employees, agents and vendors who are engaged to provide marketing or client-development services, such as publicists, public-relations personnel, business-development staff and website designers. Moreover, a lawyer may pay others for generating client leads, such as Internet-based client leads, as long as the lead generator does not recommend the lawyer, any payment to the lead generator is consistent with Rules 1.5(e) (division of fees) and 5.4 (professional independence of the lawyer), and the lead generator's communications are consistent with Rule 7.1 (communications concerning a lawyer's services). To comply with Rule 7.1, a lawyer must not pay a lead generator that states, implies, or creates a reasonable impression that it is recommending the lawyer, is making the referral without payment from the lawyer, or has analyzed a person's legal problems when determining which lawyer should receive the referral. See also Rule 5.3 for the (duties of lawyers and law firms with respect to the conduct of nonlawyers); Rule 8.4(a) (duty to avoid violating the Rules through the acts of another) ~~who prepare marketing materials for them.~~

[6] A lawyer may pay the usual charges of a legal service plan or a not-for-profit or qualified lawyer referral service. A legal service plan is a prepaid or group legal service plan or a similar delivery system that assists ~~prospective clients~~ people who seek to secure legal representation. A lawyer referral service, on the other hand, is any organization that holds itself out to the public as a lawyer referral service. Such referral services are understood by ~~lawpersons~~ the public to be consumer-oriented organizations that provide unbiased referrals to lawyers with appropriate experience in the subject matter of the representation and afford other client protections, such as complaint procedures or malpractice insurance requirements. Consequently, this Rule only permits a lawyer to pay the usual charges of a not-for-profit or qualified lawyer referral service. A qualified lawyer referral service is one that is approved by an appropriate regulatory authority as affording adequate protections for ~~prospective clients~~ the public. See, e.g., the American Bar Association's Model Supreme Court Rules Governing Lawyer Referral Services and Model Lawyer Referral and Information Service Quality Assurance Act (requiring that organizations that are identified as lawyer referral services (i) permit the participation of all lawyers who are licensed and eligible to practice in the jurisdiction and who meet reasonable objective eligibility requirements as may be established by the referral service for the protection of ~~prospective clients~~ the public; (ii) require each participating lawyer to carry reasonably adequate malpractice insurance; (iii) act reasonably to assess client satisfaction and address client complaints; and (iv) do not ~~refer prospective clients~~ make referrals to lawyers who own, operate or are employed by the referral service.)

[7] A lawyer who accepts assignments or referrals from a legal service plan or referrals from a lawyer referral service must act reasonably to assure that the activities of the plan or service are compatible with the lawyer's professional obligations. See Rule 5.3. Legal service plans and lawyer referral services may communicate with ~~prospective clients~~ the public, but such communication must be in conformity with these Rules. Thus, advertising must not be false or misleading, as would be the case if the communications of a group advertising program or a group legal services plan would mislead ~~prospective clients~~ the public to think that it was a lawyer referral service sponsored by a state agency or bar association. Nor could the lawyer allow in-person, telephonic, or real-time contacts that would violate Rule 7.3.

SECTION 32. 20:7.3 of the Supreme Court Rules is amended to read:

20:7.3 ~~Direct contact with prospective~~ Solicitation of clients

(a) A lawyer shall not by in-person or live telephone or real-time electronic contact solicit professional employment ~~from a prospective client~~ when a significant motive for the lawyer's doing so is the lawyer's pecuniary gain, unless the person contacted:

(1) is a lawyer; or

(2) has a family, close personal, or prior professional relationship with the lawyer.

(b) A lawyer shall not solicit professional employment ~~from a prospective client~~ by written, recorded, or electronic communication or by in-person, telephone, or real-time electronic contact even when not otherwise prohibited by par. (a), if:

(1) the lawyer knows or reasonably should know that the physical, emotional, or mental state of the person makes it unlikely that the person would exercise reasonable judgment in employing a lawyer; or

(2) the ~~prospective client~~ target of solicitation has made known to the lawyer a desire not to be solicited by the lawyer; or

(3) the solicitation involves coercion, duress, or harassment.

(c) Every written, recorded, or electronic communication from a lawyer soliciting professional employment from ~~a prospective client~~ anyone known to be in need of legal services in a particular matter shall include the words "Advertising Material" on the outside envelope, if any, and at the beginning and ending of any printed, recorded, or electronic communication, unless the recipient of the communication is a person specified in pars. (a)(1) or (a)(2), and a copy of it shall be filed with the office of lawyer regulation within five days of its dissemination.

(d) Notwithstanding the prohibitions in par. (a), a lawyer may participate with a prepaid or group legal service plan operated by an organization not owned or directed by the lawyer that uses in-person or telephone contact to solicit memberships or subscriptions for the plan from persons who are not known to need legal services in a particular matter covered by the plan.

(e) Except as permitted under SCR 11.06, a lawyer, at his or her instance, shall not draft legal documents, such as wills, trust instruments, or contracts, which require or imply that the lawyer's services be used in relation to that document.

SECTION 33. ABA Comments [1]-[8] to 20:7.3 of the Supreme Court Rules are renumbered as ABA Comments [2]-[9]. Renumbered ABA Comments [2]-[7] are further amended to read:

~~{1}[2]~~ [2] There is a potential for abuse ~~inherent in when a solicitation involves~~ direct in-person, live telephone or real-time electronic contact by a lawyer with ~~a prospective client~~ someone known to need legal services. These forms of contact ~~between a lawyer~~

~~prospective client~~ the public, rather than direct in-person, live telephone or real-time electronic contact, will help to assure that the information flows cleanly as well as freely. The contents of advertisements and communications permitted under Rule 7.2 can be permanently recorded so that they cannot be disputed and may be shared with others who know the lawyer. This potential for informal review is itself likely to help guard against statements and claims that might constitute false and misleading communications, in violation of Rule 7.1. The contents of direct in-person, live telephone or real-time electronic ~~conversations between a lawyer and a prospective client~~ contact can be disputed and may not be subject to third-party scrutiny. Consequently, they are much more likely to approach (and occasionally cross) the dividing line between accurate representations and those that are false and misleading.

~~[4]~~ [5] There is far less likelihood that a lawyer would engage in abusive practices against ~~an individual who is~~ a former client, or a person with whom the lawyer has close personal or family relationship, or in situations in which the lawyer is motivated by considerations other than the lawyer's pecuniary gain. Nor is there a serious potential for abuse when the person contacted is a lawyer. Consequently, the general prohibition in Rule 7.3(a) and the requirements of Rule 7.3(c) are not applicable in those situations. Also, paragraph (a) is not intended to prohibit a lawyer from participating in constitutionally protected activities of public or charitable legal-service organizations or bona fide political, social, civic, fraternal, employee or trade organizations whose purposes include providing or recommending legal services to ~~its~~ their members or beneficiaries.

~~5~~[6] But even permitted forms of solicitation can be abused. Thus, any solicitation which contains information which is false or misleading within the meaning of Rule 7.1, which involves coercion, duress or harassment within the meaning of Rule 7.3(b)(2), or which involves contact with ~~a prospective client~~ someone who has made known to the lawyer a desire not to be solicited by the lawyer within the meaning of Rule 7.3(b)(1) is prohibited. Moreover, if after sending a letter or other communication ~~to a client~~ as permitted by Rule 7.2 the lawyer receives no response, any further effort to communicate with ~~the prospective client~~ the recipient of the communication may violate the provisions of Rule 7.3(b).

~~6~~[7] This Rule is not intended to prohibit a lawyer from contacting representatives of organizations or groups that may be interested in establishing a group or prepaid legal plan for their members, insureds, beneficiaries or other third parties for the purpose of informing such entities of the availability of and details concerning the plan or arrangement which the lawyer or lawyer's firm is willing to offer. This form of communication is not directed to ~~a prospective client~~ people who are seeking legal services for themselves. Rather, it is usually addressed to an individual acting in a fiduciary capacity seeking a supplier of legal services for others who may, if they choose, become prospective clients of the lawyer. Under these circumstances, the activity which the lawyer undertakes in communicating with such representatives and the type of Dated at Madison, Wisconsin, this 21st day of July, 2016.

BY THE COURT:

Diane M. Fremgen
Clerk of Supreme Court

¶1 SHIRLEY S. ABRAHAMSON, J. (dissenting) The Wisconsin State Bar Board of Governors proposes Rule Petition 15-03 on behalf of the State Bar Standing Committee on Professional Ethics. A lot of good, hard work has gone into this petition, and the Committee and its chair, Attorney Dean Dietrich, are to be not only thanked but also congratulated.

¶2 As I commented at the public hearing, I am disappointed that the Committee was made up entirely of lawyers; there were no public members. Over the years, many public members have served on component parts of the lawyer regulatory system, including the Board of Administrative Oversight, the Preliminary Review Committee, the Special Preliminary Review Panel, and the 16 District Committees. The public members make important contributions and bring a different perspective to bear based on their life experiences and their experiences in diverse lawyer regulation matters.

¶3 I would not adopt the proposal today on three "procedural" grounds.

A

¶4 First, I would add this petition, along with Rule Petition 15-04, to the work of a committee to be appointed by the court to review the Rules of Professional Conduct for Attorneys. I would not approach changes in the Rules piecemeal unless exigent circumstances exist.

¶5 I proposed such a committee in Rule Petition 15-01.² The committee I proposed would have also studied the organization, operation, processes, and procedures of the lawyer discipline system and made recommendations for changes.

¶6 The court dismissed Petition 15-01 as part of an inventive ruse, namely that it was not a proper subject for a rule petition.

¶7 As was noted at the court's November 16, 2015 open conference and in the order dismissing Rule Petition 15-01, the dismissal of Rule Petition 15-01 does not necessarily end the prospects for the appointment of a committee to study the lawyer discipline system.

¶8 Unfortunately, however, decisions about whether a committee will be established and the composition, mission, and functioning of any such committee will be made behind closed doors.

¶9 Lawyer discipline is of great importance to the bench, the bar, and the public. Discussion about changing the Rules of Professional Conduct for Attorneys, in my opinion, should take place in public.

¶10 I write separately here not only to express my views of the proposed rule but also to repeat my commitment to keeping the bench, the bar, and the public informed as best I can about what progress (or lack thereof) is made in the creation of such a committee. As of this date, the public has not been advised about such a committee.

² Rule Petition 15-01 and the court's order dismissing it can be found at <https://www.wicourts.gov/srules/supreme.htm>. Rule Petition 15-01 was dismissed on December 21, 2015.

B

¶11 Second, included in the petition submitted to and considered by the court, but omitted from the order adopting the rule, is material the Bar submitted in its petition under the heading "Supporting Information for the Proposed Amendment."

¶12 The Supporting Information is helpful. I would have included it along with the material labeled Comments.

¶13 I recommend that anyone researching any of the rules or comments adopted in this order examine the "Supporting Information." It is available at <https://www.wicourts.gov/supreme/docs/1503petition.pdf>.

C

¶14 Third, most of the proposed changes (about 20 at a minimum, depending on how the material is counted) and the bulk of the text relates to the creation or revision of Comments to the Rules, not to the text of the Rules themselves. By my count, only 12 provisions propose changes to the text of the Rules themselves; changes in the Rules comprise a comparatively small amount of the text of the proposal.

¶15 Although most of the work presented in the petition has been on Comments, the order states that the court does not adopt the Comments; the Comments are printed to provide guidance only.

¶16 My concern about the Comments is that it seems at times that the narrative in the Comments is being substituted for reconsideration of the text of the Rules; some Comments do not seem to have a basis in the Rules; other Comments go far afield. The court's use of Comments in the Rules should be re-examined.

¶17 For the reasons set forth, I write separately.

©2017 Ruder, Ware, L.L.S.C. Accurate reproduction with acknowledgment granted. All rights reserved.

This document provides information of a general nature regarding legislative or other legal developments. None of the information contained herein is intended as legal advice or opinion relative to specific matters, facts, situations, or issues, and additional facts and information or future developments may affect the subjects addressed.

Wisconsin State Bar
2017 Spring Legal Ethics Series

Highlights of the New Rules

Dean R. Dietrich
Tim Pierce
Max Welsh

Ruder Ware Wausau | Eau Claire
ruderware.com

W1585114.pptx BUSINESS ATTORNEYS FOR BUSINESS SUCCESS®

Discussion of Rule Changes

New Rules and Comments – 1/1/17
Trust Account Changes – 7/1/16
Fee Rule Changes – 7/1/16

Scenario

The law requires that pleadings be filed electronically with the court. Solo continues to file flawed documents and failing to follow proper procedures. Court gives Solo chance to demonstrate proficiency with e-filing procedures but Solo pays another lawyer to do the work and still fails to demonstrate proficiency. Is lawyer subject to discipline for failing to master e-filing?

SCR 20:1.1

Maintaining Competence

[8] To maintain the requisite knowledge and skill, a lawyer should keep abreast of changes in the law and its practice, including the benefits and risks associated with relevant technology, engage in continuing study and education and comply with all continuing legal education requirements to which the lawyer is subject.

STATE of Oklahoma ex rel., OKLAHOMA BAR ASSOCIATION v. OLIVER, 369 P.3d 1074 (2016)

Dissent arguing for a suspension rather than censure

¶ 6 Respondent: 1) in both form and substance demonstrated incompetency to practice law before the Bankruptcy Court of the Western District of Oklahoma; 2) failed to make honest attempts to improve despite personalized help from court staff, directing insults instead; 3) violated a direct order of the Bankruptcy Court; 4) displayed a profound lack of candor; 5) failed to notify this Court of his suspensions; and 6) failed to timely notify his clients of his suspensions, resulting in the administrative closure of several of their cases.

¶ 7 To quote the Bankruptcy Court's own Order of Permanent Suspension: "[Respondent] has blamed his problems on software deficiencies and computer glitches, even when poor reading comprehension, impatience and/or lack of attention to detail were the real culprits." As part of the disciplinary process, it is our duty to inquire into and gauge a lawyer's continued fitness to practice law, with a view to safeguarding the interest of the public, of the courts, and of the legal profession. State ex rel. Okla. Bar Ass'n v. Friesen, 2015 OK 34, ¶ 18, 350 P.3d 1269; State ex rel. Okla. Bar Ass'n v. Layton, 2014 OK 21, ¶ 34, 324 P.3d 1244. I am unconvinced Respondent will represent future clients with any more competence than he displayed in his bankruptcy practice, and find his lack of candor and blatant disregard for the Bankruptcy Court's orders disturbing. I would suspend Respondent for two years and one day.

Scenario

Law firm has client with business in another jurisdiction and wants to hire local firm to act as local counsel.

What do the firms need to think about?

SCR 20:1.1 Competency – New Comment

Retaining or Contracting With Other Lawyers

[6] Before a lawyer retains or contracts with other lawyers outside the lawyer's own firm to provide or assist in the provision of legal services to a client, the lawyer should ordinarily obtain informed consent from the client and must reasonably believe that the other lawyers' services will contribute to the competent and ethical representation of the client. See also Rules 1.2 (allocation of authority), 1.4 (communication with client), 1.5(e) (fee sharing), 1.6 (confidentiality), and 5.5(a) (unauthorized practice of law). The reasonableness of the decision to retain or contract with other lawyers outside the lawyer's own firm will depend upon the circumstances, including the education, experience and reputation of the nonfirm lawyers; the nature of the services assigned to the nonfirm lawyers; and the legal protections, professional conduct rules, and ethical environments of the jurisdictions in which the services will be performed, particularly relating to confidential information.

SCR 20:1.1 Competency – New Comment

6. When lawyers from more than one law firm are providing legal services to the client on a particular matter, the lawyers ordinarily should consult with each other and the client about the scope of their respective representations and the allocation of responsibility among them. See Rule 1.2. When making allocations of responsibility in a matter pending before a tribunal, lawyers and parties may have additional obligations that are a matter of law beyond the scope of these Rules.

Scenario

Lawyer is a self-confessed “techno-phobe” and has never quite got along with all the “new-fangled” devices. Lawyer will use cell phone and eventually learns to like some of the features, but lawyer has never bothered to learn some simple features, like the ability to lock with a passcode and never gives a thought about using free Wi-Fi.

SCR 20:1.6

(d) A lawyer shall make reasonable efforts to prevent the inadvertent or unauthorized disclosure of, or unauthorized access to, information relating to the representation of a client.

New Comment to SCR 20:1.6

Acting Competently to Preserve Confidentiality

18) Paragraph (c) requires a lawyer must to act competently to safeguard information relating to the representation of a client against unauthorized access by third parties and against inadvertent or unauthorized disclosure by the lawyer or other persons who are participating in the representation of the client or who are subject to the lawyer's supervision. See Rules 1.1, 5.1, and 5.3. The unauthorized access to, or the inadvertent or unauthorized disclosure of, information relating to the representation of a client does not constitute a violation of paragraph (c) if the lawyer has made reasonable efforts to prevent the access or disclosure. Factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of the lawyer's efforts include, but are not limited to, the sensitivity of the information, the likelihood of disclosure if additional safeguards are not employed, the cost of employing additional safeguards, the difficulty of implementing the safeguards, and the extent to which the safeguards adversely affect the lawyer's ability to represent clients (e.g., by making a device or important piece of software excessively difficult to use). A client may require the lawyer to implement special security measures not required by this Rule or may give informed consent to forgo security measures that would otherwise be required by this Rule. Whether a lawyer may be required to take additional steps to safeguard a client's information in order to comply with other law, such as state and federal laws that govern data privacy or that impose notification requirements upon the loss of, or unauthorized access to, electronic information, is beyond the scope of these Rules. For a lawyer's duties when sharing information with nonlawyers outside the lawyer's own firm, see Rule 5.3, Comments [3]-[4].

A Cybersecurity Checklist: 7 Ways to Protect Data

October 2016 Wisconsin Lawyer Tison H. Rhine & Aviva Meridian Kaiser

1) Use firewalls and secure your router.

- ☐ If your router has a firewall, make sure it is turned on.
- ☐ Enable one, and only one, software firewall.
- ☐ Change the default username and password of your router.
- ☐ Turn off Remote Access.
- ☐ Use WPA2 encryption for Wi-Fi.

2) Use anti-malware software.

- ☐ Malware refers to all manner of nasty software, including viruses.
- ☐ You absolutely should have anti-malware software installed.
- ☐ Windows Defender is the absolute minimum.
- ☐ Quality free versions are available, but may not be licensed for commercial use.
- ☐ Don't install multiple antivirus products at once (but do get Malwarebytes).
- ☐ Keep your security programs updated.

3) Always keep your operating systems and software up to date.

- ☐ Set your systems and other software to automatically check for updates.
- ☐ Install updates immediately.
- ☐ Contact Practice411 if you need assistance: (608) 250-6012; (800) 444-9404, ext. 6012; or trhine@wisbar.org.

4) Use strong passwords to protect desktop computers, laptop computers, tablets, smart phones, and accounts from unauthorized access.

- ☐ Weak passwords are not very secure. Use strong passwords or passphrases.
- ☐ Do not keep a list of your passwords near your computers or in an unsecured file.
- ☐ Use a password manager to more easily manage your online accounts.

5) Back up your data.

- ☐ You need backup. This is nonnegotiable.
- ☐ You want full backup and disaster recovery to be able to boot your entire system – not just to access files.
- ☐ It is a good idea to back up both locally and to the cloud.
- ☐ Make backup easier with services such as CrashPlan, or use a commercial service.

6) Practice safe surfing.

- ☐ Consider browser extensions or add-ons for additional security.
- ☐ Use a secure web connection, https://, whenever possible.
- ☐ Use a VPN connection, especially when traveling or using public Wi-Fi.
- ☐ Consider an ad blocker to protect against malvertising.

7) Change behavior.

- ☐ Stop and think before you click on a link!
- ☐ Check the legitimacy of websites.
- ☐ Know what you don't know.

Where else does 20:1.6(d) come into play

- Electronic information storage and transmission
- Education of clients
- Education of staff
- Portable devices

SCR 20:5.3 New ABA Comment

[3] A lawyer may use nonlawyers outside the firm to assist the lawyer in rendering legal services to the client. Examples include the retention of an investigative or paraprofessional service, hiring a document management company to create and maintain a database for complex litigation, sending client documents to a third party for printing or scanning, and using an Internet-based service to store client information. When using such services outside the firm, a lawyer must make reasonable efforts to ensure that the services are provided in a manner that is compatible with the lawyer's professional obligations. The extent of this obligation will depend upon the circumstances, including the education, experience and reputation of the nonlawyer; the nature of the services involved; the terms of any arrangements concerning the protection of client information; and the legal and ethical environments of the jurisdictions in which the services will be performed, particularly with regard to confidentiality. See also Rules 1.1 (competence), 1.2 (allocation of authority), 1.4 (communication with client), 1.6 (confidentiality), 5.4(a) (professional independence of the lawyer), and 5.5(a) (unauthorized practice of law). When retaining or directing a nonlawyer outside the firm, a lawyer should communicate directions appropriate under the circumstances to give reasonable assurance that the nonlawyer's conduct is compatible with the professional obligations of the lawyer.

Scenario

Lawyer meets with prospective client A in connection with a commercial real estate transaction. When prospective client states who the opposing party is, Lawyer says "I represented opposing party a few years ago in acquiring that property. Would you like me to see if he would sign a conflict waiver?"

Misconduct?

New SCR 20:1.6(c)(6)

(c) A lawyer may reveal information relating to the representation of a client to the extent the lawyer reasonably believes necessary:

(6) to detect and resolve conflicts of interest, but only if the revealed information would not compromise the attorney-client privilege or otherwise prejudice the client.

SCR 20:1.6 – New Comment [13]

Any such disclosure should ordinarily include no more than the identity of the persons and entities involved in a matter, a brief summary of the general issues involved, and information about whether the matter has terminated. Even this limited information, however, should be disclosed only to the extent reasonably necessary to detect and resolve conflicts of interest that might arise from the possible new relationship. Moreover, the disclosure of any information is prohibited if it would compromise the attorney-client privilege or otherwise prejudice the client (e.g., the fact that a corporate client is seeking advice on a corporate takeover that has not been publicly announced; that a person has consulted a lawyer about the possibility of divorce before the person's intentions are known to the person's spouse; or that a person has consulted a lawyer about a criminal investigation that has not led to a public charge). Under those circumstances, paragraph (a) prohibits disclosure unless the client or former client gives informed consent. A lawyer's fiduciary duty to the lawyer's firm may also govern a lawyer's conduct when exploring an association with another firm and is beyond the scope of these Rules.

Scenario

Lawyer receives e-mail communication from opposing counsel, which relates to a proposed settlement. Lawyer opens attachment, which is a Word document, and checks document for metadata. Lawyer discovers copious notes that are clearly from opposing party revealing thoughts on settlement. Lawyer carefully studies notes and then notifies opposing counsel that he has searched for and found metadata. Opposing counsel threatens to disqualify lawyer from continued representation of client.

- Has Lawyer acted properly?

New SCR 20:4.4(c)

(c) A lawyer who receives a document or electronically stored information relating to the representation of the lawyer's client and knows or reasonably should know that the document or electronically stored information contains information protected by the lawyer-client privilege or the work product rule and has been disclosed to the lawyer inadvertently shall:

- (1) immediately terminate review or use of the document or electronically stored information;
- (2) promptly notify the person or the person's lawyer if communication with the person is prohibited by SCR 20:4.2 of the inadvertent disclosure; and
- (3) abide by that person's or lawyer's instructions with respect to disposition of the document or electronically stored information until obtaining a definitive ruling on the proper disposition from a court with appropriate jurisdiction.

"Electronically stored information" is defined in ABA Comment [2]

. . . For purposes of this Rule, "document or electronically stored information" includes, in addition to paper documents, email or other forms of electronically stored information, including embedded data (commonly referred to as "metadata"), that is subject to being read or put into readable form. . . .

SCR 20:4.4 Wisconsin
Committee Comment

This Rule, unlike its Model Rule counterpart, contains paragraph (c), which specifically applies to information protected by the lawyer-client privilege and the work product rule. If a lawyer knows that the document or electronically stored information contains information protected by the lawyer-client privilege or the work product rule and has been disclosed to the lawyer inadvertently, then this Rule requires the lawyer to immediately terminate review or use of the document or electronically stored information, promptly notify the person or the person's lawyer if communication with the person is prohibited by SCR 20:4.2 of the inadvertent disclosure, and abide by that person's or lawyer's instructions with respect to disposition of the document or electronically stored information until obtaining a definitive ruling on the proper disposition from a court with appropriate jurisdiction.

Scenario

Small Law Firm wants to hire Associate to add immigration law to services they offer. Associate is only licensed in Minnesota, where she has been practicing immigration law for the last three years, but firm hires her and she begins representing clients while she waits to take bar exam.

Problem?

SCR 20:5.5 Multijurisdictional Practice

- (d) A lawyer admitted to practice in another United States jurisdiction or in a foreign jurisdiction, who is not disbarred or suspended from practice in any jurisdiction for disciplinary reasons or medical incapacity, may provide legal services through an office or other systematic and continuous presence in this jurisdiction that may provide legal services in this jurisdiction that:
- are provided to the lawyer's employer or its organizational affiliates after compliance with SCR 10.03 (4) (f), and are not services for which the forum requires pro hac vice admission; or
- are services that the lawyer is authorized to provide by federal law or other law or other rule of this jurisdiction.

Scenario - variation

Assume Small Law Firm is organized as a limited liability entity. Firm hires Associate and she gets to work.

Problem?

SCR 20:5.7 Limited Liability Practice

(a)(1) A lawyer may be a member of a law firm that is organized as a limited liability organization solely to render professional legal services under the laws of this state, including chs. 178 and 183 and subch. XIX of ch. 180. The lawyer may practice in or as a limited liability organization if the lawyer is otherwise ~~licensed~~ authorized to practice law in this state and the organization is registered under sub. (b).

Scenario

Lawyer provides investment planning services and also provides elder law/estate planning services to clients. New client comes in and wants just investment planning services. Lawyer provides client with written explanation that the investment advisor services are not part of the legal services provided by the lawyer. Lawyer advertises investment advisor services separately from her advertising for estate planning services.

- Are the investment advisor services part of the lawyer's law practice?

The New SCR 20:5.8 Responsibilities Regarding Law-Related Services

- (a) A lawyer shall be subject to the Rules of Professional Conduct with respect to the provision of law-related services, as defined in paragraph (b), if the law-related services are provided:
- (1) by the lawyer in circumstances that are not distinct from the lawyer's provision of legal services to clients; or
 - (2) in other circumstances by an entity controlled by the lawyer individually or with others if the lawyer fails to take reasonable measures to assure that a person obtaining the law-related services knows that the services are not legal services and that the protections of the client-lawyer relationship do not exist.
- (b) The term "law-related services" denotes services that might reasonably be performed in conjunction with and in substance are related to the provision of legal services, and that are not prohibited as unauthorized practice of law when provided by a nonlawyer.

SCR 20:5.8 ABA Comment

- [2] Rule 5.7 applies to the provision of law-related services by a lawyer even when the lawyer does not provide any legal services to the person for whom the law-related services are performed and whether the law-related services are performed through a law firm or a separate entity. The Rule identifies the circumstances in which all of the Rules of Professional Conduct apply to the provision of law-related services. Even when those circumstances do not exist, however, the conduct of a lawyer involved in the provision of law-related services is subject to those Rules that apply generally to lawyer conduct, regardless of whether the conduct involves the provision of legal services. See, e.g., Rule 8.4.
- [3] When law-related services are provided by a lawyer under circumstances that are not distinct from the lawyer's provision of legal services to clients, the lawyer in providing the law-related services must adhere to the requirements of the Rules of Professional Conduct as provided in paragraph (a)(1). Even when the law-related and legal services are provided in circumstances that are distinct from each other, for example through separate entities or different support staff within the law firm, the Rules of Professional Conduct apply to the lawyer as provided in paragraph (a)(2) unless the lawyer takes reasonable measures to assure that the recipient of the law-related services knows that the services are not legal services and that the protections of the client-lawyer relationship do not apply.

What's a "law-related service?"

Examples of law-related services include providing title insurance, financial planning, accounting, trust services, real estate counseling, legislative lobbying, economic analysis, social work, psychological counseling, tax preparation, and patent, medical or environmental consulting.

Don't forget...

When a client-lawyer relationship exists with a person who is referred by a lawyer to a separate law-related service entity controlled by the lawyer, individually or with others, the lawyer must comply with Rule 1.8(a).

SCR 20:1.8(a) Business Transactions with Clients

- (a) A lawyer shall not enter into a business transaction with a client or knowingly acquire an ownership, possessory, security or other pecuniary interest adverse to a client unless:
- (1) the transaction and terms on which the lawyer acquires the interest are fair and reasonable to the client and are fully disclosed and transmitted in writing in a manner that can be reasonably understood by the client;
 - (2) the client is advised in writing of the desirability of seeking and is given a reasonable opportunity to seek the advice of independent legal counsel on the transaction; and
 - (3) the client gives informed consent, in a writing signed by the client, to the essential terms of the transaction and the lawyer's role in the transaction, including whether the lawyer is representing the client in the transaction.

Scenario

Lawyer is contacted by Internet Company that proposes to provide internet advertising for lawyer. Under advertising program, lawyer would pay a monthly fee to company called "Your Best Lawyer." Individuals can enter information on a form and send it to the company. The company will respond to the e-mail communication with the name and contact information for the lawyer based upon the geographical region where the lawyer is located. The individual contact the company indicating information regarding the legal problem and the company communicates that information to the lawyer and the lawyer pays a fee of $25 for the communication.

Does this comply with applicable Rules?

New ABA Comment [5] to SCR 20:7.2

Paying Others to Recommend a Lawyer

[5] Except as permitted under paragraphs (b)(1)-(b)(4), lawyers are not permitted to pay others for recommending the lawyer's services or for channeling professional work in a manner that violates Rule 7.3. A communication contains a recommendation if it endorses or vouches for a lawyer's credentials, abilities, competence, character, or other professional qualities. Paragraph (b)(1), however, allows a lawyer to pay for advertising and communications permitted by this Rule, including the costs of print directory listings, on-line directory listings, newspaper ads, television and radio airtime, domain-name registrations, sponsorship fees, Internet-based advertisements, and group advertising. A lawyer may compensate employees, agents and vendors who are engaged to provide marketing or client development services, such as publicists, public-relations personnel, business-development staff and website designers. Moreover, a lawyer may pay others for generating client leads, such as Internet-based client leads, as long as the lead generator does not recommend the lawyer, any payment to the lead generator is consistent with Rules 1.5(e) (division of fees) and 5.4 (professional independence of the lawyer), and the lead generator's communications are consistent with Rule 7.1 (communications concerning a lawyer's services). To comply with Rule 7.1, a lawyer must not pay a lead generator that states, implies, or creates a reasonable impression that it is recommending the lawyer, is making the referral without payment from the lawyer, or has analyzed a person's legal problems when determining which lawyer should receive the referral. See also Rule 5.3 (duties of lawyers and law firms with respect to the conduct of nonlawyers); Rule 8.4(a) (duty to avoid violating the Rules through the acts of another).

What's a "recommendation?"

ABA Comment [5]

"A communication contains a recommendation if it endorses or vouches for a lawyer's credentials, abilities, competence, character, or other professional qualities."

2014 Indiana Private Reprimand Summary

Indiana attorney, who is exclusive licensee for legal services offered in Indiana by Arizona motorcycle injury lawyers association, and who has exclusive right to use association's trademarked "Law Tigers" name and other marks in Indiana, engaged in attorney misconduct, in violation of Rule 7.1 and prior Rule 7.2(d) of Indiana Rules of Professional Conduct, as result of his affiliation with association's website, since rules in question prohibit misleading communications regarding statistical data, testimonials and information based on past performances, and website offers search function identifying attorney and his firm as exclusive "Law Tigers" source for legal services in Indiana, and features "settlements and verdicts" page showing examples of results by "Law Tigers" lawyers, with links to "client testimonials," since average viewer would not differentiate between attorney and statements about "Law Tigers" on association's website, even though attorney's own website provides disclaimers regarding content of "Law Tigers" website, and since attorney thus is responsible for objectionable content on association's website; private reprimand is appropriate discipline in view of mitigating factors, including absence of prior disciplinary history, attorney's due diligence in attempting to determine whether his relationship with association would violate any professional conduct rule, and disclaimers on attorney's website.

Scenario

Lawyer hires marketing firm for advice with respect to expanding his practice. Marketers tell Lawyer to use mass texting service to reach prospective clients. Lawyer does so. Lawyer's colleague is concerned that firm is now engaged in a prohibited form of solicitation.

Is Lawyer engaged in prohibited "real-time electronic contact" with potential client?

SCR 20:7.3

(a) A lawyer shall not by in-person or live telephone or real-time electronic contact solicit professional employment from a prospective client when a significant motive for the lawyer's doing so is the lawyer's pecuniary gain, unless the person contacted:

- (1) is a lawyer; or
- (2) has a family, close personal or prior professional relationship with the lawyer.

ABA Comment [3] was amended to clarify that communications by email or other electronic means do not involve real-time contact

[3] This potential for abuse inherent in direct in-person, live telephone or real-time electronic solicitation justifies its prohibition, particularly since lawyers have alternative means of conveying necessary information to those who may be in need of legal services. In particular, communications can be mailed or transmitted by email or other electronic means that do not involve real-time contact and do not violate other laws governing solicitations. These forms of communications and solicitations make it possible for the public to be informed about the need for legal services, and about the qualifications of available lawyers and law firms, without subjecting the public to direct in-person, telephone or real-time electronic persuasion that may overwhelm a person's judgment.

Overview of Trust Account Rule (effective July 1, 2016)

The Four Significant Changes in the "New and Improved SCR 20:1.15"

1. The transfer of the fee provisions from the former trust account rule to the fee rule;
2. The revision of the recordkeeping requirements to provide general standards in the trust account rule and to transfer the detailed procedures from the rule to guidelines published by OLR;
3. A rebuttable presumption that shifts the burden of proof to the respondent upon a showing by OLR that the respondent failed to promptly deliver trust or fiduciary property or failed to provide records accounting for trust or fiduciary property; and
4. The procedures providing for the use of electronic transactions for trust and fiduciary account deposits and disbursements.

The Lawyer's Responsibility for the Security of Each Transaction

Newly created SCR 20:1.15(f)(1) states:

(1) Security of transactions. A lawyer is responsible for the security of each transaction in the lawyer's trust account and shall not conduct or authorize transactions for which the lawyer does not have commercially reasonable security measures in place. A lawyer shall establish and maintain safeguards to assure that each disbursement from a trust account has been authorized by the lawyer and that each disbursement is made to the appropriate payee. Only a lawyer admitted to practice law in this jurisdiction or a person under the supervision of a lawyer having responsibility under SCR 20:5.3 shall have signatory and transfer authority for a trust account.

“Commercially Reasonable Security Measures”

Neither the Rule nor the Comment defines “commercially reasonable security measures.” Mary Hoeft Smith, OLR Trust Account Program Administrator, provides the following guidance.

Lawyers will need to communicate with their financial institution as to what is “commercially reasonable” based upon the specific types of e-banking that a lawyer plans to utilize.

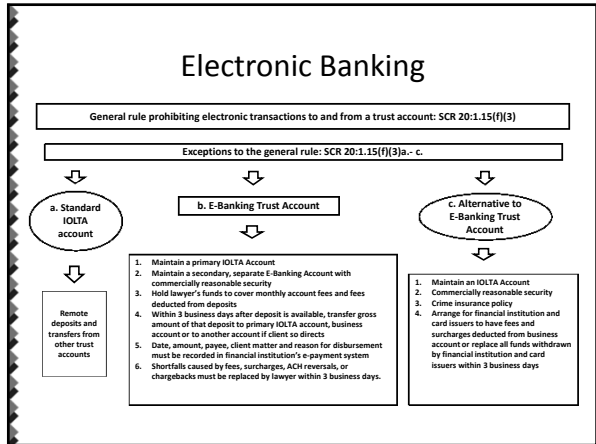

It is very likely that security measures will evolve over time in response to the evolution of cyber threats and that minimum security requirements for the lawyer or law firm to follow will be identified in an agreement with the financial institution.

What are “commercially reasonable security measures”?

No definition in the Rule, but may include:

- 1) A dedicated computer for e-banking that is not connected to the firm’s server that has software protection against malware, spyware, and viruses;
- 2) Education of lawyers and law firm staff on corporate account takeover, social engineering techniques, and other cyber threats;
- 3) ACH Debit blocks;
- 4) ACH Positive pay;
- 5) Online review of account activity at least daily;
- 6) Security Tokens for two factor authentication (tokens are small hardware devices with a PIN number and a time sensitive code to conduct transactions);
- 7) Dual controls (two people must authorize a transfer); and
- 8) Creation of a contingency plan to mitigate and/or recover unauthorized transfers in the event of a cyberattack or corporate account takeover.

Lawyers should start with talking to their banks.

©2017 Ruder Ware, L.L.S.C. Accurate reproduction with acknowledgment granted. All rights reserved.

This document provides information of a general nature regarding legislative or other legal developments. None of the information contained herein is intended as legal advice or opinion relative to specific matters, facts, situations, or issues, and additional facts and information or future developments may affect the subjects addressed.
